Prescription for a Revolution

by David E. Brown '75

The pharmacy school has all the students it can handle in Chapel Hill. Its expansion 200 miles away in Elizabeth City is a service to the underserved and a bold foray into teaching by videoconference.

They've Got Game

by Beth McNichol '95

No scholarships, no NCAA rules, no fans in the stands. No problem. If you want a diversion, can't let go, or need to be good at something new, welcome to the very wide world of club sports.

Depth Perception

by Paul Gilster

Ramesh Raskar '02 (PhD) once thought the world was being painted as he watched. Now he's playing tricks with light and shadow, but his push into the uncharted territory of augmented reality is no illusion.
